

More than 17 years ago I injured my lower back helping a friend of mine clear some land he wanted to build his house on. Since then, I have averaged at least 2 episodes a year when my back would just go out for a few weeks and most times I couldn't walk straight and the pain would be unbearable.

Just recently, I decided to see what Chiropractic care could do for me. Talk about hitting the jackpot. I didn't just run into Tuck Chiropractic, but something much more, I ran into Kerri.

During the time that she has given me therapy she has gone far beyond her call of duty. Just a few weeks ago my back went out again and in just a couple of days I was back on my feet again. Not only did she straighten out my back but the pain went away with it. She even gave me therapy when the office was closed. Not only that, she is a real person, and I have found the warmth and ears of a true friend.

I am not looking for a reward! A wise person once said, "Give honor to whom honor is due." She deserves the reward. When someone shoes you they truly care that is unmatched by anything.

Kerri, I truly thank you from the depths of my heart.
